Due to a well-staffed production line and expert

- · Does your excavator offer the breakout force necessary for the size bucket you want and the load it will carry?
- Do you need a digging bucket, ditching bucket or grading bucket? What job does it need to perform?
- Finally, what is your budget for an excavator bucket?

With excavators, one can get a whole lot more creative as far as buckets, grapples and other attachments are concerned, that's why we offer a large variety of different buckets and attachments for all sized excavators, including grading buckets, cable buckets, screening buckets, trapezoidal buckets, and the list goes on...

Contractors and dealers should also keep in mind that excavator attachments often take longer to prepare and deliver than skid steer attachments. While a skid steer offers a universal guick-attach plate, every make and model of excavator has a different configuration at the end of the stick or boom. Therefore, it takes time to prepare a hook up on an excavator attachment that will fit your configuration just right. We will usually ask you what type of quick coupler your excavator may have. If you have a pin-grabber instead of a quick-coupler on your excavator, we will ask you for measurements of your pin diameters, distance between your pins and a couple of other measurements. So, please make sure to allow for extra time when ordering an excavator attachment!

The Solaris Shark Tooth Stump Splitter/Harvester model RST 150

This amazing Solaris Shark Tooth Stump Splitter allows you to saw through stumps in the ground of various sizes, shapes and types, then split it with the wedge shape of the tooth and extract it with a 12-24-ton excavator. Proudly made in the USA with AR 400 steel, the Solaris Shark Tooth Stump Splitter is built like a tank and built to last.

This highly rugged and effective Solaris Shark Tooth Stump Splitter will save you a very significant amount of time and money on your mid-sized excavator for land clearing jobs. Splitting the stump in the ground and harvesting the downsized stump sections with this attachment has many advantages:

- · Less wear and tear on your machine
- Less disturbance to the ground when compared to using a bucket
- No need for larger excavators
- · Make far fewer trips to haul away whole stumps
- · Easy processing and much safer than some traditional means
- Ability to enter sloped and rugged terrain, unlike a dedicated, more expensive stump grinder

Once the stumps are split, use the Solaris Shark Tooth Stump Splitter, together with a thumb, to extract the stump from the ground or load it into a tub grinder or container. With this tool, there is no need for a larger tub grinder. The use of the Solaris Shark Tooth Stump Splitter saves you money and increases profits without having to invest huge sums of money.
